WHO SHOULD TAKE THE SAT?

- First time test takers of the SAT should take it in JUNE of their JUNIOR year. Students should then sign up to take the SAT in OCTOBER of their SENIOR year. Most colleges and universities will take the best combined score from both tests.
- Students who have taken higher level courses (Honors, GT, and Advanced Placement) in English and Mathematics, and have had at least two years of a world language.

WHY ARE YOU TAKING THE SAT?

Are you planning to attend a four-year college after high school? Community colleges do not require the SAT.

Does your college or university require the SAT or ACT? Do you know the difference between the two tests?

Have you examined your PSAT scores in order to be prepared for the SAT?

HOW TO PRACTICE FOR THE SAT

- Take challenging academic courses
- Students can log onto: <https://quickstart.collegeboard.com> and get personalized feedback, practice and college plans based on their PSAT results.
- Visit sat.collegeboard.org/practice for free resources.
- Enroll in a school or community based SAT prep course.
- Try these web sites:

AM I READY FOR THE SAT?

Is this the right time for you to take the SAT?

- o Are you as prepared as you can be?
- o Are you in the spring semester of your junior year or beyond?
- o Are you ready?
- o Do you know what to expect?
  - Length of test
  - Types of questions on test
  - Deadlines to register

If you answered “no” to any of these questions you need to talk to your school counselor about your options and support available to help you.

Schedule an appointment to see your Counselor in the School Counseling Office. Your Counselor can help you decide whether the SAT is right for you. Your Counselor can review your PSAT performance with you, provide test prep resources, and assist you in deciding whether the ACT or SAT is right for you.
